PROMINENT MEN IN
UTILITIES WORLD
AT MEETING HEREFirst Dist. Assn. of Public Speakers' Bureau
in Meet

The meeting of the First District Association of the Public Speakers Bureau, held in Dixon yesterday, attracted more than a hundred officers and employes of public utility interests in the northwestern section of the state, who enjoyed an excellent program at the Nachusa Tavern. Among the different utilities operation represented were the telephone, electric, gas, water and electric railways. The program was not the only entertainment provided for the visitors, trips through the new I. N. U. hydro plant, the Dixon Home Telephone company's modern building, and the recently electrified pumping station of the Dixon Water company, being points of interest visited during the day. Following the program, many of the visitors availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting the Dixon Country club and enjoyed golf.

The meeting brought to Dixon many notables in the utility world, chief of whom was Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities company of Chicago. Jay G. Mitchell, secretary of the Illinois Telephone Association of Springfield and James H. Corcoran, district commercial manager of the Illinois Bell Telephone company at Rockford, were among the notable guests present, who addressed the meeting.

Had Luncheon at Tavern.

At 1 o'clock the visitors enjoyed a sumptuous dinner at the Nachusa Tavern and during the meal hour the Dixon Theater orchestra furnished a program of musical selections which were heartily applauded. Following the dinner, the chairman called the meeting to order and read the report of the accomplishments of the speaker's bureau within the first district since its organization. The chairman stated that the purpose of the meeting was to re-arouse interest, adding that it was very fitting that Dixon be selected as the place for the holding of the meeting, due to the fact that E. D. Alexander, Louis Pitzer, George W. Hawley and Robert Hallenbeck had been most loyal and had done all in their power to stimulate the organization.

Public Opinion and the Utilities," was the subject discussed by Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities company and one of the foremost in the public utility world today. In part he said: "There is a necessity of favorable opinion of the public in the utility business of today and toward the utilities companies. This is a young business, when we stop to consider that it was only 150 years ago that the steam engine was developed. In this short space of time, as time is measured, the utilities interests have developed. They have developed by enormous expansion and revolution. In the lives of many here today, have developed the telephone, the telegraph and electric power. It has been a rapid stride and has kept those of us in the utility business thinking. We believe that the public has also been thinking and I believe that the utility men assume the public to know almost as much about the utility business as they do themselves. This is a decidedly wrong impression. "We are engaged in a business which is of great public interest. We and we only are to blame if the public has not become educated as it has been only in the last five years that any effort has been extended the public in this great business. "We must bear in mind that these businesses of ours have been declared monopolies and the public is satisfied that they should be monopolies. There is no reason why they should be otherwise. There is no reason for two sets of gas mains in Dixon or two telephone systems. And, as monopolies, I believe they should be regulated. The public's interest is best served by regulation and under regulation these companies are allowed to be a fair return.

Not Owned by Barons. "From the public point of view the rate question is best served, the rate being set as to provide funds to increase our service as demanded. We must acquaint the public with the fact that the public utilities are not owned by barons.

"The public has to be educated con-

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—A gas explosion in a Chinese restaurant in the Chicago shopping district today killed two negro employees, injured a third, and threw diners and shoppers into a panic.

The blast sent police and firemen speeding to the scene with visions of a new outbreak of Chinese Tong warfare, but the explosion proved to have been accidental. It occurred in a gas water heater.

BOARD OF TRADE
MUST PUT HOUSE
IN PERFECT ORDERSecretary Jardine Says So in Informal Address in Chicago

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture William N. Jardine, arriving here today on a tour of mid-western agricultural states declared the Board of Trade of Chicago must put its house in order and expressed interest in efforts to reorganize the Grain Marketing Company.

The secretary was to make a formal address before the Midwest Motor Transport Conference, considering coordination of steel, electric and motor vehicle transportation and prior to that spoke informally at the stock yards at noon.

He said that tomorrow he would call on officers of the American Farm Bureau Federation, The Illinois Agricultural Association and the National Livestock Producers Association and might have an opportunity to see Board of Trade men, adding that his visit has not contemplated any conference with the Board of Trade or the Grain Marketing Company officers. He said there had been some informal conferences in Washington recently concerning the Grain Marketing Company, which has been opposed in selling stock to farmers by the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation and the Illinois Agricultural Association.

The secretary explained that he, of course, was interested in the question whether the grain marketing company should be reorganized.

Must Regain Confidence. "I am naturally interested as Secretary of Agriculture," he said, "in whether the grain marketing company has lost the confidence of the farmers. Without the confidence of the farmers no marketing company can accomplish anything. Grain marketing is one of the important problems of American Agriculture today. One of the agencies in the field of grain marketing is the Grain Marketing Company and we are obliged to take it into consideration."

He said the Board of Trade, where earlier in the season wide price fluctuations had caused the secretary to order an investigation, must "put its house in order" although he intimated he was not to be understood as opposing the board as an institution.

"We are not opposed to the legitimate functions of the board of trade," he said. "We do oppose grain gambling. People are beginning to think it is a nuisance, because it has been running wild."

The board, he added, must cease to destroy confidence in it, if it is to survive.

Alton School Teacher
Suicided This Morning

Alton, Ill., May 28.—(AP)—Robert L. Lowry, aged 70, principal of Horace Mann Public School in Alton, teacher of a class in the Main Street Methodist Church, was found dead in his bed room this morning, a belt around his throat, attached to the head of his bed. He has been dead several hours before being found by his daughter Miss Nan Lowry, a teacher in Alton High School.

The daughter says her father was to retire from teaching school at the end of this year. He was greatly depressed for some time and his suicide is attributed to a mental breakdown. He served four years as county superintendent of schools of Madison County and for thirty three years had been head of Horace Mann School. He was active in religious circles and in public enterprise.

Nearly as unsuccessful as the search for White, has been the selection of a jury that is to try Shepherd on a charge of murdering his millionaire ward, William M. McClintock. No progress was made in yesterday's questioning of veniremen and as court opened today the call for veniremen was well down in the third panel of 100. Only three jurors were definitely accepted.

John J. Kelley, insurance agent and chiropractor, accused in a letter-bombing case, was being written by White in Philadelphia as being one of the persons who caused him to disappear, was credited with admissions to the prosecutors which gave them satisfaction.

Says Kelley Told a Lot. "Kelley told a whole lot Tuesday," he told a whole lot more today," State Attorney Crowe said.

He was confident regarding the outcome of a hearing today on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in Kelley's behalf.

The estate of McClintock, known as the "millionaire orphan" was valued at approximately $1,000,000 in an inventory filed today in probate court by the Northern Trust Company.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, May 28.—Attorneys for James Callan, politician, accused by the state's attorney's of approachng veniremen called for possible jury service in the murder trial of William D. Shepherd, appeared before Judge Thomas Lynch today with written answers to the State's 23 interrogatories.

In these he admitted having been employed by Shepherd's attorney's to investigate veniremen, but was no longer employed by the defense attorneys.

First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman had further action deferred until afternoon, to give him an opportunity to study Callan's replies to the interrogatories.

Learn Why White Left. Interest in the swiftly moving side drama of the Shepherd case, depicting alleged bribery and attempted jury fixing, is now divided between the thus far unsuccessful search in New York for Robert White, state's witness, and disclosures said to have been made to the state's attorney's office of the reasons why White fled the city.

Nearly as unsuccessful as the search for White, has been the selection of a jury that is to try Shepherd on a charge of murdering his millionaire ward, William M. McClintock. No progress was made in yesterday's questioning of veniremen and as court opened today the call for veniremen was well down in the third panel of 100. Only three jurors were definitely accepted.

Acreage Data

Washington, May 28.—(AP)—The North Branch Farmers Producers Association of Minnesota has telegraphed the Department of Agriculture that "we would be very thankful if you will keep your mouth shut about the intended planting of the potato acreage for the year 1925."

This communication was received after announcement by the department that farmers had intended to plant four per cent less acreage to potatoes this year than in 1924.

MEANT NO INSULT
North Branch, Minn., May 28.—(AP)—C. W. Peterson, manager of the Farmers Produce Association and author of the telegram to the Department of Agriculture, advising the department to "keep your mouth shut" about the intended 1925 potato acreage, today said that he "did not intend to insult the department of agriculture—it was just the way I felt about the situation."

"You see," Mr. Peterson said, "it's like this. The Department of Agriculture got out circulars telling the farmers that there would be about a six per cent decrease in potato acreage this year.

"And the department said for the farmers to plant more potatoes, and that's the trouble. They have planted so many around here that we have about a ten per cent increase over last year.

"That means we won't get anything for our potatoes. If the Department of Agriculture hadn't said so much the farmers wouldn't have planted so many potatoes."

Unable to Find His Wife

Hawkey became enraged and began shooting after Mrs. Schekley told him that his wife had roomed there a month, but departed on May 1, without leaving her new address. Her son went to his mother's aid and he, too, was shot down.

Hawkey, who escaped, is said to have come here from Akron, O.

WOMAN, FUGITIVE
FROM DIXON STATE
HOSPITAL, FOUNDArrested in Freeport
When Found Wandering
on Railway

Attendants from the Dixon state hospital went to Freeport yesterday morning returning with Mrs. Ruby, an escaped patient from the institution. The woman is said to have run away from the ward late Tuesday night and wandered into the Illinois Central yards. Here she is alleged to have informed the members of a freight train crew that she had been held at the institution as demented, but that in reality she was of sound mind and wanted to leave.

According to the reports, she was taken to Freeport where she was found later wandering alone in the railroad yards and detained until attendants from the institution arrived to take her in charge. The Freeport Journal-Standard of Wednesday had the following account of the woman's experience, which differs from that which was given out by the Dixon police:

About 4 o'clock this morning police took into custody a Mrs. Ruby, Chicago, aged 30 years, who had run away from the state epileptic colony at Dixon, the woman having been arrested at Wallace yards. She was picked up near Freeport by an Illinois Central freight crew after she had told the crew she was from Freeport and had been lost. Dixon authorities phoned here last night asking the police to search for the woman and this morning a nurse and officer from the state colony came to Freeport and took Mrs. Ruby back to Dixon.

The woman had tucked her skirts inside of a pair of bloomers and sought to pose as a man but her apparel was such that she was easily identified. She was placed in the county jail until the authorities arrived here this morning.

Sheriff Can't Succeed
Himself in Any Manner

Springfield, May 28.—(By the Associated Press)—A sheriff who has been elected to fill an unexpired term of a former incumbent cannot succeed himself at the expiration of the term, Attorney General Carlstrom held in an opinion today.

Representative Frank A. McCarthy, Elgin, asked the attorney general "whether or not a sheriff who is appointed to fill a vacancy and at the next general election, elected for the remainder of the term, may at the expiration thereof, succeed himself."

Attorney General Carlstrom wrote him saying that the language of the statutes being "having once been elected," it is his opinion that it cannot matter whether the incumbent was elected at an annual quadrennial election for the full term of four years or at an annual election to fill a vacancy—the inhibition of this section of the constitution applies and the incumbent is disqualified to succeed himself.

HOPE THAT ANY ARE ALIVE HAS
BEEN ABANDONEDRescue Crew Reached 1800
Foot Level Early
Today

Coal Glen, N. C., May 28.—(AP)—Two more bodies were brought to the surface early today, bringing the total number taken from the Carolina Coal Company mine to eight. The bodies were found about 1,800 feet down the slope. Finding of the bodies lessened the hope that some of the three score or more miners entombed yesterday might be rescued alive. Six bodies were taken out late yesterday.

After-damp, dread enemy of the miner, claimed their lives, if they survived the series of explosions which closed their escape to the surface, rescue workers declared.

Relatives Around Mine. Throughout the night hundreds of women and children, relatives of the entombed men, strained against the barrier ropes surrounding the entrance to the mine.

For hours after the disaster hope was entertained that the imprisoned men might still live. This hope was nurtured by the report that fresh air had been encountered by workers.

As fresh crews replaced tired workers until the 1,800 foot level had been reached, without bearing evidence of the imprisoned men, the belief grew that after-damp had claimed as its toll the lives which might have survived the explosion.

The arrival of a mine rescue car from West Virginia, whence it was ordered by the Bureau of Mines today was expected to facilitate the work of rescue.

Believed in Main Shaft. Mine officials believed the men would be found in the main shaft after a wall of debris blocking the main passageway had been cleared away.

Hospital and other relief facilities were made available to care for any one who might be rescued from the mine.

A careful re-check by the time-keeper of the Carolina Coal Company's mine, it was stated, showed that there were 53 men recorded as having been in the mine at the time of the explosion. Of these 27 were white and 26 negroes. Eight bodies, five white and three negroes had been recovered.

Presbyterians Adjourn
Without Any Agreement

Columbus, O., May 28.—(AP)—The eventual outcome of the modernist-fundamentalist controversy in the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America rested in the hands of a commission of fifteen to study the entire issue when the general assembly of the church adjourned here yesterday. Members of the commission are to be appointed by the new moderator, Dr. Charles R. Erdman, and the body will report at the next assembly.

The controversy thought to have been settled, flared up again in the closing sessions of the assembly. The modernist faction asserted that if the action of the assembly holding acceptance of the Virgin birth necessary for the licensure of ministers is ratified by the church body, a general split in the denomination is inevitable.

Urges Parents to Look Over Children's Books

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—A plea that parents give more observation to the reading matter of their sons and daughters was contained in an address made today by Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago Methodist Temple, before the Chicago Home Missionary and Church Extension Society.

"We have come to realize that morals are often made in the kitchen and that the cook may directly affect the moral life of the entire family," he said. "But it is vastly more important to be concerned about their mental diet. What are the magazines that lie on the table in the home? What is the character of the daily newspaper bought for family reading?"

BAREFOOT—
(By Hal Cochran.)

Gee, but I wish I was back in my teens; back as a mere freckled kid. I can remember the old boyhood scenes, and all of the things that I did.

But it's the same way with all other men. If they'd really come out with the truth, they'd all like to go back, once again, just to dabble around in their youth.

Member the days when an old pair of pants, and a sweater were all that you wore? Wasn't it fun, just to loaf, when by chance, you were hurriedly sent to the store.

Member how toughened your feet used to get, when you shed both your stockings and shoes? Wasn't it great, when the roadway was wet, and the mud round your ankles would ooze?

All of those memories come back now and then, to a man in a sort of a haze. Gee! it's no wonder we wish, once again we were back in those barefooted days.

and at the home of her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Welch, in the afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, she entertained sixteen little playmates in honor of the day.

Such a merry time as the youngsters had in playing games, and in disposing of the tempting birthday luncheon, served later. The birthday cake in pink and white with lighted candles was much admired. Dainty favors for the children were also in pink and white. Hazel received many pretty remembrances which will remind her of her happy eighth birthday.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Will Remove Glue.

To remove glue from fabrics, soak in hot water and vinegar or in vinegar alone. Should vinegar affect the color, sponge with diluted ammonia followed by chloroform.

House Lighting.
Avoid flickering or dazzling lights
as these produce eyestrain and headache. The light should come from above and over the shoulder.

Sassafras Oil.
To deodorize gasoline for cleaning purposes, add a few drops of oil of sassafras to each quart of gasoline.

Will Brighten Pan.
Cooking fruits and add vegetables

An aluminum pan will brighten it.
While alkali compositions will discolor it.

Rockford, with friends.

TONIGHT
ONLY
"The Little Lady"

Menu for a Family
Tested by SISTER MARY.

Breakfast:
Stewed dried apricots, cereal, thin
cream, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon:
Purée of chicken with rice, lettuce sandwiches, pineapple sponge, plain cake, milk, tea.

Dinner:
Broiled lamb chops, creamed potatoes, buttered asparagus, radishes and celery, strawberry sherbet, coconut macaroons, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Chicken left from stewed chicken is pounded and rubbed through a sieve, made moist with chicken stock and cream and served in a border of steamed rice. It's an excellent dish for small children being both appetizing and nourishing.

While a child under school age may not eat radishes he may have finely minced celery. This with the lettuce in the luncheon sandwiches adequately supplies the uncooked daily green vegetable.

Creamed Potatoes.
Four cups diced potatoes, 1/2 cup butter, 4 drops onion juice, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 egg yolk, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon minced parsley.

The potatoes should be cut in half-inch dice. Drop into boiling water and boil four minutes. Drain. Add one-third cup of butter, cover and cook over a low fire for 30 minutes, until the potatoes are soft and slightly browned. Melt remaining butter, add onion juice and flour and stir until perfectly blended. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper and bring to the boiling point. Stir in egg yolk and pour over potatoes in a hot vegetable dish. Sprinkle with parsley and serve.

Strawberry Sherbet.
One quart berries, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups water, whites 2 eggs, few grains salt.

Wash and hull berries. Cover with sugar, crush and let stand one hour.
Add water and turn into freezer.
When half frozen fold in the whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry.
Finish freezing and let stand packed in ice and salt one hour to "ripen."

of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ruppert, delightfully entertained nine of her little girl friends, her classmates at school, at a party held yesterday afternoon at her home, honoring her eighth birthday.

The party was held after school and great had been the anticipation of the little maidens all day as to the happy time in store for them, and their happiness was realized in the gay time enjoyed in games and in the disposal of the tempting birthday luncheon. Flowers and favors added to the joy of all, and they will long remember Catherine's eighth birthday. She received many nice gifts

Epworth League Notes
(Contributed.)
Well, we're off on a new year, with a newly installed president and her cabinet in charge. They were all present last Sunday at the ceremonies, and also at the League meeting, and we hope they keep up that record.
Rev. Moore gave us an informal and well directed talk about "quitting school too soon," which set many of us thinking.
A week from next Sunday an opportunity will be given to those who wish to do so to help defray the expenses of the institute and the debt on the swimming pool at Franklin Grove.
There will be no meeting Sunday evening because of the baccalaureate ceremonies at the Assembly Auditorium.
Just a reminder. If you have not pledged it will be easier for all concerned if you do it now. The pledges should be paid to the new second vice-president, Gordon McNichol.

THE BURDEN ON THE BOARD.

Perhaps we may as well be calm over the governor's veto of the Sanitary District bonding bill. A typhoid fever epidemic is not about to burst upon Chicago as a result of the veto—not now nor ever.

Before the bill was passed it was analyzed in detail by various agencies established for the welfare of the city, and the conclusion was reached that it provided more than was needed and that this provision was not by any means all for known and stipulated purposes. In effect, it gave the Sanitary District board a huge allowance for spending money.

The governor's position, as he stated it, was that so large a sum ought not to be allowed unless the precise necessity for every dollar of it were shown and approved by the taxpayers, and that, further, there should be safeguards assuring that it would be spent as announced.

This position and his substitute for the original bill, we are now told by the professional Small haters, are merely weapons to force a division of patronage. So doubtless was the bulletin of the efficiency commission which opposed the bill. To secure this purpose the governor, we are assured, is willing to trifle with an epidemic.

The perfectly well known fact is that the board has money enough in hand and available to begin its program. The board knows—nobody better—that money for any program approved by the government and the people will be forthcoming. The governor, not being wholly uninformed on public affairs, also knows this. If anybody is trifling with an epidemic, it is the board, which in this bonding matter is showing the same attitude that it has often shown in the past.

But even the stupidest political alarmist in Chicago, whoever he may be, knows that nobody is trifling with an epidemic. Chicago is not about to be victim of a germ war inaugurated by an indignant national government. The upshot will be that the board, which is in charge of the Sanitary District, and the governor, who is in charge of the state, will agree sooner or later on a program for sensible spending, the national government will coldly, scientifically and efficiently examine and approve the program, and a permanent system of disposing of waste will be perfected. Meanwhile the burden is on the board to present a sound program for spending, not on the governor for opposing an unsound one.—Chicago Herald-Examiner.

IN PRINCIPLE

The National Parent-Teacher Association, meeting at Austin, Tex., has gone on record as favoring the substitution of women for men in all police work involving girls.

There is no reason why this principle should not be unanimous. Girls in trouble seldom need third degrees, cold cells, or masculine treatment. There are many policemen who are fatherly enough, but it takes a woman to understand a woman.

LOCK YOUR CAR.

There are organized gangs of auto thieves in the United States. But their thefts are comparatively small.

Ninety per cent of the auto thefts are by joyriders who leave the car after a night of pleasure.

You will have a hard time thwarting the professional, once he determines to make off with your car. Good locks will thwart the amateur.

This is just a reminder that this is the joy riding season.

FAITH.

A Seattle philanthropist loaned $500 to men as they were released from jail.

Only $2 was paid back, shaking the philanthropist's faith in human nature.

But it shakes our faith in the social system which does not always permit an ex-prisoner to earn his way back into society.

Secretary Hoover is giving us notice that a rubber famine impends as early as 1928 or 1930. This is because of restrictions that are making by the British who control the great producing territory in the middle east, from which comes 95 percent of the world's rubber. Our rubber imports in 1923 were 72 per cent of the whole world's production. Secretary Hoover is seeking to induce Great Britain to put a stop to this "combination in restraint of international trade."

Chicago now threatens that if reapportionment wins in such manner as to limit Chicago representation in the legislature, then Chicago will, as soon as it grows a little more and gets a majority of the population, grab the governorship and all the state offices. Well, let's chance it.

The European committee having the matter in hand has reported inability to agree on the American suggestion that the use of poison gas be abandoned. But the American delegation, headed by Burton, will keep on striving for this suggestion, which is one of the major points concerning disarmament.

Wonder if there isn't a chance for a legislative "trade" down at Springfield now that the Chicago sanitary district bill has been defeated? If Chicago and Cook county offer to agree to a constitutional amendment that will limit their representation in the legislature, there is no doubt that agreement to the sanitary district bill would be secured.

By Chester H. Rowell

The plan of the administration, according to Senator Watson, is to "enforce prohibition to the limit," and then, if the people do not like it, "it will be up to them to have their claws modified."

Senator Watson ought to be lawyer enough to know that the second half of this proposition does not follow. So long as 13 states are satisfied with enforced prohibition, there is no way to "modify the law," no matter how disgruntled the rest of the people might be.

There would still only be two things to do to keep on enforcing the law or fail to enforce it. Repeal of the absolute unyieldability of the law itself is the first step toward clear thinking on this subject.

This does not mean that small changes, which interest nobody, could not be made. A $300 fine could be changed to $200 or $400; a different bureau might be charged with the enforcement, or the alcoholic limit could be a half per cent by weight instead of by volume.

Changes like this are within the competency of Congress. But not the changes that anybody cares about. Especially not a "beer and wine" law.

If Congress were to pass such a law, the supreme court would throw it out. This is not guessing. It has already been decided.

The man in the street will tell you of a decision that Congress may "define" how much alcohol it takes to make a drink intoxicating or non-intoxicating, but your lawyer cannot find it in his books. There is no such decision. There is one to the exact contrary.

So the thing, in law, is simply finished. Strict or lax enforcement may make it harder or easier to get illegal liquor, but there can be no constitutional way to get legal liquor—including "beer and wine." The thing is done. You may enforce the law or not enforce it; obey or disobey it. You can not change it.

Whether the beer law (forget the "and wine") would be a good thing if we could get it may be tested in Ontario, Canada. The Ontario law is conservative enough on paper. There are to be no saloons, and the beer is to be sold only in hotels, at the table. If the law works well, many Americans will conclude that it would be a good thing to have it here.

But remember this. No matter if it were a good law, and if most of the American people wanted it, there is no constitutional way to get it, so long as 13 states object. And more than 13 will object longer than you live.

MONARCHIST REACTION IN U. S. TOO

Don't wonder that there is a monarchist reaction in Germany. What is there here?

We, to be sure, would not tolerate a king, nor the same person indefinitely as a president or governor. But to the executive, not as a person, but as an institution, we are insisting on giving wider powers than the most absolute monarchy would endure in its sovereign.

Consider the debt settlement. Nobody resents the semi-official report from Washington that one of the

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 22—BALDY EAGLE CHASES MRS. FISH HAWK

Mrs. Blackbird was telling about Mrs. Fish-Hawk and the great bald eagle.

"Yes, sir," she went on to say. "Mrs. Fish-Hawk has an enemy and that is Mister Baldy Eagle. He isn't really bald though in spite of his name. He has white feathers on top of his head that give him that look. That is why he is called the bald eagle."

Mrs. Blackbird stopped to smooth out her ruffled feathers and to get her breath. She had done so much talking since her arrival that she was hoarse as ever.

"Do go on with your story," urged Nick. "We want to hear how you saved Mrs. Fish-Hawk from the eagle."

"Well, to be perfectly truthful, I didn't do it all by myself," said Mrs. Blackbird modestly. "My friends helped me. They were just as furious about it as I was, when I told them what was going on."

"You see it was this way," Mrs. Fish-Hawk said. "I all her fishing near the shore. She would fly around in the air until she would see a fish near the top of the water. Hawks of all kinds have the sharpest eyes in the world. Nothing escapes them. They are like eagles. And you have heard the old saying, 'To have an eye like a eagle'."

"When she sees a fish she makes a swoop down to the water and grabs it in her claws. Then she flies back to the tall tree where she has her big nest, and divides the fish among her children."

"When it is finished," went on Mrs. Blackbird, "she flies back again for another fish. Mrs. Fish-Hawk is a good mother and fishes constantly."

"What had the bald eagle to do with it?" asked Nick.

"I'm coming to that," said the blackbird. "Not more than half a mile away from the tree where Mrs. Fish-Hawk lives, old Baldy Eagle dwells on a cliff."

"He has sharp eyes and he is very strong and can lift a fish out of the water that is as big as he is."

"But he is lazy, and when he sees another bird with a fine fat fish in its claws, he says to himself, 'Yum! That looks good, and it's easier to take it away from its owner than it is for me to go fishing, and get all wet.'"

"So he got into the habit of watching until Mrs. Fish-Hawk caught a big fish and then when she was half way home, chase her and steal it right out of her claws. It was the meanest thing you ever saw. Besides, Mrs. Fish-Hawk's children came night to starving to death."

"I could stand it no longer," said Mrs. Blackbird, "so at last I went and told my friends. Hundreds of them."

"They were as indignant as I was, so we had a meeting and decided to do something."

"What did you do?" asked Nancy. "We watched, and the very next time old Baldy Eagle chased Mrs. Fish-Hawk to steal her fish, we rose up like a black cloud and got after him. We picked at him and flapped our wings in his eyes and screamed at him until he was glad to sneak off home. And Mrs. Fish-Hawk got to her nest safely."

"Did he stop?" asked Nick. "Yes, sir," said Mrs. Blackbird proudly. "He did. Every time he got after her we did the same thing. That is what muzzed me up so. But at last he let her alone for good and all."

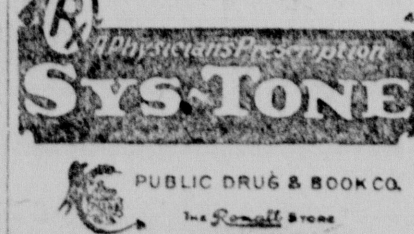

"You were very brave birds," said Doctor Bill.

or less money. That means fundamental reconstruction of the whole state organization for raising, appropriating and spending money. It takes study, courage, work, and—hardest of all—thinking, to do that.

False economy, is easier and for many votes. It consists simply in spending less money this year. And the easiest way to do that is to stave off until next year, or until the next administration, expenditures that will have to be made some time, and could be made cheaper and more usefully now than then.

This is the principal item in many spectacular "economy" crusades. It is nearly always extravagant.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?

THURSDAY, May 28—If today is your birthday, it will be very easy for you to become an "old fogey." You will detest new ideas, and will do little traveling from the town or city in which you live. You will get in a rut, doing little outside the routine of your daily work.

Born under the zodiacal sign of Gemini, the twins, you have a much better side, if you would only bring it forward. Pull yourself out of the ruts, find out what the rest of the world is doing and forget many of your old-fashioned ideas.

Value of Airplane Carrier Was Shown

U. S. S. Seattle, Off The Hawaiian Islands, May 27—Informal discussions today by observers of the recent inter-fleet maneuvers off the island of Maui revealed that the aircraft carrier U. S. S. Langley proved the high value of aircraft carriers as important elements of the first offense and defense during the recent inter-fleet maneuvers.

The maneuvers, however, showed that the low speed capacity of the Langley would reduce its effectiveness by far in actual battle, the observers said.

The Langley has a speed of only 12 knots and has been used by the navy largely as an experimental vessel to solve the difficult problem of launching and landing observation servers said a valuable lesson had been learned and can be used as a guide in the construction of the new carriers Saratoga and Lexington converted from the hulls of battle cruisers as a result of the Washington limitation agreement.

Naval men hope that as a result of the maneuvers and the Langley showing that appropriations will be made for the construction of additional airplane carriers which is permitted under the 135,000 tonnage limitation placed on the United States and Great Britain by the Washington treaty.

LEE COUNTY HAS THREE COWS NOW IN SELECT LIST

Rank Among Best Producers of Butter Fat in State

Urbana—A Grade Jersey in the herd of Parkhill Dairy, Benton, Franklin county, is now showing the way for the Illinois dairy cows that are being pushed for membership in the Illinois 500 Pound Butterfat Cow Club. During the last four months the Parkhill county Jersey has produced a total of 270.1 pounds of fat and 4,890 pounds of milk, and like the other cows that are candidates for a membership in the club she is being fed for a production of at least 500 pounds of fat within a year.

The purebred Holstein owned by Walter Taylor, Hanna City, which led the race for the first three months, has now dropped to third place. Second position is held by a purebred Guernsey belonging to Fred Converse, Round Lake.

With the first four months of the race for membership in the new club gone, 60 cows from 14 counties in the state already have produced 200 or more pounds of butterfat. Many other cows that have been nominated for a membership are just coming into heavy production and will make their strongest bid for a membership later.

Lee Co. Has Three.

Thirteen of the 60 nominated cows that already have produced 200 or more pounds of fat are owned by DuPage county farmers and dairymen, while McHenry county is close behind with 12 cows in the list. Jo Daviess county has six of the 60 cows, Franklin county five and Lake, Will and Stephenson counties four each. White and Lee counties each claim three of the high producers while McLean county has two. Peoria, McLean, Marion and Warren counties are represented by one each.

Arthur D. Corne, Hebron, still holds the honor for having more cows among the 60 highest producing ones than any other farmer or dairyman in the state. His six purebred Holsteins that were well up in the race at the end of the first three months are still making a bid. W. A. Rogers, Glenn Ellyn; Wardland Farm, Benton; A. W. Fisher, Bensenville, and R. W. Stewart, Hebron, each have four cows that have produced more than 200 pounds of fat during the first four months, while Frank Flack, Stockton, and Fred Converse, Round Lake, have three each and H. W. Bloch, Lockport, and Edward Schleicher, Freeport, two each.

Farmers and dairymen having one cow that has produced 200 or more pounds of butterfat during the first four months include Harry Averill, Batavia; M. A. Goodmiller, Stockton, Ole Stahlheim, Harvard; Degner & Barth, Amboy; Peter Olsen, Naperville; William Wurtz, West Chicago; Ray E. Mayer, Roselle; John Fredrickson, Stockport; Harry Flack, Osborn Farms, Area; Habben & Son, Galt; W. T. Raleigh, Freeport; L. M. Knox, Warren; H. C. Vial, Downers Grove; Howard Phelps, Plainfield; Warner Shultz, Galt; Holly Smith, Amboy; J. E. Simmons, Prairie City; D. A. Laufer, Sublette; Julius Holmberg, Elburn; Frank Wislmann, Freeport; H. P. Irish, Farina; Parkhill Dairy, Benton; and Walter Taylor, Hanna City.

BOERS WIN ATTACK AND GUNS ARE USED TO CRUSH REVOLT

Editor's Note: John Hays Hammond, veteran mining engineer, of Washington, is one of the most picturesque characters of America. Millions have been invested upon his advice in mining affairs. His adventures as a young mining expert were thrilling and exciting. During the Uitlanders' rebellion against Oom Paul in the Transvaal he was one of the leaders and was sentenced to die. Here is the third of eight interviews Hammond has given exclusively to the Dixon Telegraph.

(By Charles P. Stewart.)
NEA Service Writer

"It was up to me to bluff all our lives."

"I could see in Sammy Marks' face," Johnny Hays Hammond, veteran American mining engineer, continued his story of the Uitlanders' fight for their rights against the Boer government of Oom Paul Kruger's day as president of the Transvaal, "that Sammy already knew what Col. Rhodes' note had just told me—that Dr. Jameson had invaded the republic."

"Sammy had come to me from Kruger to feel out the situation. I had no idea how weak we were. Doubtless he believed we had given Jameson the signal to come ahead. He naturally would think we must be very strong to have done that."

"I'm afraid there'll be bloodshed," began Sammy.

"We want none," I answered, "but we're prepared to defend ourselves."

"I hear you have 30,000 rifles," probed Sammy.

"I pretended to do a little mental arithmetic. We had 500 or 600, as a matter of fact. Oh, scarcely 30,000," I said unconvincedly.

"M-m-m, well, not quite 30," I half agreed. Really we had two Maxims.

"I had Sammy trailed when he left. He took a special train back to Pretoria."

SAMMY REPORTS

"Mr. President," he told Oom Paul, "there'll be bloodshed in Johannesburg, for sure. The Reform Committee has 30,000 rifles and 30 cannons. Hammond admitted that much to me."

"On later visits I made to the Transvaal many's the treat Sammy had to stand for my friends among the young progressives now."

"The Johannesburg were boiling. Like the Boers, they believed the Reform Committee had plenty of arms. They wanted them to help Jameson. Ugly crowds gathered around the Gold Fields Building, where the committee was in session.

MR. PRESIDENT, HE TOLD OOM PAUL, 'THERE'LL BE BLOODSHED IN JOHANNESBURG, FOR SURE'

PRESIDENT PAUL KRUGER OF THE BOER REPUBLIC

"Guns! guns!" they yelled. "Give us guns. Where's Jameson?" Then, "Let's blow up the building!"

"Sam Jameson, the doctor's brother and a member of the committee, managed to make them hear from a window. 'Be calm, for my brother's sake,' he begged. 'We have done everything in our power for him.' That quieted them a little."

"All this time we were getting in more guns as fast as we could. They were coming now in ordinary coal cars, a little coke over them."

"The governor general of Cape Colony, Sir Hercules Robinson, came up to Pretoria to see Kruger. Instead of helping, he outlawed Jameson, ordered him back and warned all Britons to refuse him aid."

KRUGER STILL CAUTIOUS

"Still Kruger was cautious. He'd a healthy respect for 30,000 rifles and 30 cannons he supposed we had. Finally there arrived in Johannesburg what was called the 'olive branch committee'—friendly Boers, from Pretoria."

"At first we wouldn't receive them, for their credentials were addressed to individuals. We insisted on being dealt with as a body. The emissaries fixed this with the government—prepared to grant most of our terms. But one thing Kruger refused—to organize our belligerency."

"The 'olive branch committee' was from LaSalle, is the home of Big Ben, the famous alarm clock and all his little brothers. The Western Clock Co. is averaging 24,000 clocks every twenty four hours. It has three blocks of factory buildings and a great office building.

We move on, twelve minutes ride by motor car, and come to Springfield Valley. Once it was famed far and wide as a coal mining center. Today it is an industrial town. As such it is prospering better.

Its manpower works at home in its own industries or in La Salle, Peru, Oglesby and Deque. Springfield Valley manufactures overalls, aprons, belts, dresses, trunks and has cigar factories. It is a source of much gravel. It believes in community play, too. It maintains a band, a baseball team and a 20-acre amusement park.

One vision this valley in industrial metamorphosis. It seems destined to become a string of close-knit cities and villages built up on the gifts that Nature has bountifully given here. The valley's industrial payroll today runs probably $25,000,000 a year.

Its power is plentiful. Coal in vast quantities, also coke and gas, much water for power plants.

Homes amid natural parks, playgrounds, concrete roads in every direction. In the center of the nation's markets and population and wealth. It is one of the great industrial communities growing up here and there, in Illinois.

"Re-Discovering Illinois" in this year 1925 leads us to such home-owning places as these. The Valley of Legend that is now a Valley of Industry will show its goods and its wares at the Illinois Products Exposition which will be held in Chicago in October.

Each year Illinois' industries are growing, each year developing. Wandering afield each little journey unfolds more of the story of what is Illinois.

(This is the fifth of a series of articles on "Re-Discovering Illinois." The sixth will be published soon.)

Good Time for Serum

"Right now is the most opportune time of year to immunize children against diphtheria with toxin-antitoxin. There is but little diphtheria now."

Can't Be Cured from the Outside.

External treatment seldom cures piles. Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied.

New HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Rowland's Pharmacy, Dixon and Rochelle, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—Adv.

DRY WEATHER MAY BOOST DIPHTHERIA HEALTH DEPT. SAYS

Is Good Time to Use Anti-Toxin Serum Doctor Says

Springfield—With a deficiency of 3 1/2 inches in the rainfall for the first four months of this year in Illinois, Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director, issued a statement today calling public attention to the importance of immunization against diphtheria on this account.

"Some authoritative medical observers," said Dr. Rawlings, "point out that diphtheria is most prevalent in years in which the rainfall is deficient, and great epidemics usually follow a series of dry years. Last year there was a deficiency of rainfall in Illinois. The weather bureau reports a deficiency of 3 1/2 inches in the rainfall of the state for the first four months of 1925. In the northern section the deficiency was slightly more than 2 inches; it was slightly more than 3 inches in the central section and an even 5 inches in the southern section. What kind of weather the coming season has in store nobody can tell."

"If there is an ill-favored relation between dryness and diphtheria—and medical men whose judgment commands respect contend that there is—then certainly the prevailing conditions portend much diphtheria during the early fall when that disease usually reaches its maximum annual prevalence. There was relatively very little diphtheria last year and the year before so that the number of susceptible children is unusually large at this time."

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied.

New HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Rowland's Pharmacy, Dixon and Rochelle, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—Adv.

Can't Be Cured from the Outside.

External treatment seldom cures piles. Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

PIRATES BEGIN TO LOOK LIKE A REAL BALL CLUB

Heavy Hitting Behind Good Pitching Puts Them in Race

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, May 28.—Heavy hitting behind good pitching has plunged Pittsburgh into the thick of the National League struggle again.

Two days ago the Pirates were on the fifth rung of the ladder, but by making a clean sweep in three games with the Cubs, they are now in 3rd position.

Wright, Pirate shortstop made a homer with the bases loaded yesterday and also got a triple and a single in helping to beat Chicago 13-3.

The Giants dropped their third straight game at Boston 5-3 marking the first series they have lost this season.

Rousch's home run with two on base enabled Cincinnati to beat St. Louis 4-2.

New York continued winning in the American League by defeating the Red Sox 4-3. All Yankee runs were made in the 7th. Meusel virtually won the game by stretching his triple into a homer after two had scored on his hit. It was his tenth home run of the season.

The Senators with a 10-9 victory, help dedicate the Athletics new ball park. Joe Harris slammed two homers and then his triple in the 8th produced the winning tally. The White Sox turned the tables on the Tigers, 10-6 by timely hitting.

Cleveland won 4-2 in a ten inning engagement at St. Louis, Uhl besting Wingard in a pitching battle.

Bob Meusel, Yankee slugger, is giving Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs a close race for home run honors. Hartnett is leading with 13 to Bob's ten and Roger Hornsby of the Cardinals and Ken Williams of the Browns are tied for third place with nine each.

Art Weiss, utility outfielder of the Cubs, who has been out of the game for sometime because of an attack of scarlet fever, went in as a pinch hitter against the Pirates yesterday. He may be out in the field in a few days.

Ty Cobb continued to be caught napping in the ninth inning by Schalk of the White Sox. He was on first and as no effort was made to hold him there, he jaunted toward second. When a few yards from the bag Schalk shot the ball toward second. The crowd yelled and Cobb doubled his pace and slid under the peg for a stolen base.

Denver Grigsby, Cubs outfielder, whose collar bone was broken in an exhibition game during spring training, reported to Manager Killefer and is anxious to get back in the game to break up the slump into which the club has fallen.

Babe Ruth has recovered from his attack of the "flu" and is out every day in uniform taking a workout, then watching his teammates play. He expects to break into the game Sunday.

Tampico to Play Ball in Walton Sunday P. M.
Bad weather made it necessary to call off last Sunday's game between the Ohio and Walton baseball teams at Walton but the contest will be staged later in the season. Next Sunday the fast and hard hitting Tampico club will journey up from Whiteside county and meet the Walton club. Tampico has played several warmly contested games at Walton and a good game is assured.

It has been suggested that an investigation commission be appointed to determine the cause for all the runs on the streets and highways. Only 15 or 20 years ago, it is pointed out, people thought a span of horses and a rubber tired buggy a satisfactory means for travel but now the impatient driver thinks he must beat the train—that may require all of a minute to pass—to the crossing while he regards the viscous honk of his horn as a sufficient warning to the kiddies that he is on his way. The findings of such a commission would be interesting.

SYNOPSIS

Malone, a London newspaper reporter, rejected by the girl he loves because he has no heroic deeds to his credit, appeals to his editor for a dangerous assignment, and is sent to interview Professor Challenger, who has recently returned from South America with a story, which no one believes, of the existence there of prehistoric animals. By way of proof he shows Malone a sketch of a stegosaurus, which he had found among the possessions of a dead explorer, Maple White; some photographs; and a piece of the wing of a pterodactyl. At a scientific lecture that night Challenger calls for volunteers for an expedition to test the truth of his assertions. Thus one foggy morning young Malone finds himself a member of a party of three setting out for South America. The other two are Professor Summerlee, scientist, and Lord John Roxton, well known explorer. At Manaus, Challenger unexpectedly joins the expedition. After ten days of traveling up the Amazon and one of its tributaries they are forced to abandon the boats and take to canoes. At this point they say good-bye to civilization and disappear into the unknown.

CHAPTER VIII

"The Outlying Pickets of the New World"

Our friends at home may well rejoice with us, for we are at our goal, and up to a point, at least, we have shown that the statement of Professor Challenger can be verified. We have not, it is true, ascended the plateau, but it lies before us, and even Professor Summerlee is in a more chastened mood. Not that he will for an instant admit that his rival could be right, but he is less persistent in his incessant objections, and has sunk for the most part into an observant silence. I must hark back, however, and continue my narrative from where I dropped it. We are sending home one of our local Indians who was injured, and I am committing this letter to his charge, with considerable doubts in my mind as to whether it will ever come to hand.

When I wrote last we were about to leave the Indian village where we had been deposited by the Esmeralda. I have to begin my report by bad news, for the first serious personal trouble (I pass over the incessant bickerings between the professors) occurred this evening, and might have had a tragic ending. I have spoken of our English-speaking half-breed, Gomez—a fine worker and a willing fellow, but afflicted, I fancy, with the vice of curiosity, which is common enough among such men. On the last evening he seems to have hid himself near the hut in which we were discussing our plans, and, being observed by our huge negro Zumbo, who is as faithful as a dog and has the hatred which all his race bear to the half-breeds, he was dragged out and carried into our presence. Gomez whipped out his knife, however, and but for the huge strength of his captor, who enabled him to disarm him with one hand, he would certainly have stabbed him. The matter has ended in a reprimand, the opponents have been compelled to shake hands, and there is every hope that all will be well. As to the feud of the two learned men, they are continuous and bitter. It must be admitted that Challenger is provocative in the last degree, but Summerlee has an acid tongue, which makes matters worse. Last night Challenger said that he never cared to walk on the Thames Embankment and look up the river, as it was always sad to see one's own eventual goal. He is convinced, of course, that he is destined for Westminster Abbey. Summerlee rejoined, however, with a sour smile, by saying that he understood that Millbank Prison had been pulled down. Challenger's conceit is too colossal to allow him to be really annoyed. He only smiled in his beard and repeated, "Really? really?" in the plying tone one would use to a child. In deed, they are children both—the other wizened and cantankerous, the other formidable and overbearing, yet each with a brain which has put him in the front rank of his scientific age. Brain, character, soul—only as one sees more of life does one understand how distinct is each.

The very next day we did actually make our start upon this remarkable expedition. We found that all our possessions fitted very easily into the two canoes, and we divided our personnel, six in each, taking the obvious precaution in the interests of peace of putting one Professor into each canoe. Personally, I was with Challenger, who was in a beatific humor, moving about as one in a silent ecstasy and beaming benevolence from every feature. I have had some experience of him in other moods, however, and shall be the less surprised when the thunderstorms suddenly come up amidst the sunshine. It is impossible to be at your ease, it is equally impossible to be dull in his company, for one is always in a state of half-tremulous doubt as to what sudden turn his formidable temper may take.

For two days we made our way up a good-sized river, some hundreds of yards broad, and dark in color, but transparent, so that one could usually see the bottom. The affluents of the Amazon are, half of them, of this nature, while the other half are whitish and opaque, the difference depending upon the class of country through which they have flowed. The dark indicate vegetable decay, while the others point to clayey soil. Twice we came upon rapids, and in each case made a portage of half a mile or so to avoid them. The woods on either side were primeval, which are more easily penetrated than woods of the second growth, and we had no great difficulty in carrying our canoes through them. How shall I ever forget the solemn mystery of it? The height of the trees and the thickness of the boles exceeded anything which I in my town-bred life could have imagined, shooting upwards in magnificent columns until, at an enormous distance above our heads, we could dimly discern the spot where they threw out their side branches into Gothic upward curves which coalesced to form one great matted roof of verdure, through which only an occasional golden ray of sunshine shot downwards to trace a thin dazzling line of light amidst the majestic obscurity. As we walked noiselessly amid the thick, soft carpet of decaying vegetation the hush fell upon our souls which comes upon us in the twilight of the Abbey and even Professor Challenger's full-chested notes sank to a whisper. Alone, I should have been ignorant of the names of these giant growths, but our men of science pointed out the cedars, the great silk cotton trees, and the redwood trees, with all that profusion of various plants which has made this continent the chief supplier to the human race of those gifts of Nature which depend upon the vegetable world, while it is the most backward in those products which come from animal life. Vivid orchids and wonderful colored lichens smoldered upon the swarthy tree-trunks and where a wandering shaft of light fell upon the golden allamanda, the scarlet star-clusters of the tacsonia, or the rich deep blue of ipomoea, the effect was as a dream of fairyland. In these great wastes of forest, life, which abhors darkness, struggles ever upwards to the light. Every plant, even the smaller ones, curls and writhes to the green surface, twining itself round its stronger and taller brethren in the effort. Climbing plants are monstrous and luxuriant, but others which have never been known to climb elsewhere learn the art as an escape from that somber shadow, so that the common nettle, the jasmine, and even the jacarita palm tree can be seen circling the stems of the cedars and striving to reach their crowns. Of animal life there was no movement amid the majestic vaulted aisles which stretched from us as we walked, but a constant movement far above our heads told of that multitudinous world of snake and monkey, bird and sloth, which lived in the sunshine, and looked down in wonder at our tiny, dark, stumbling figures in the obscure depths immeasurably below them. At dawn and at sunset the howler monkeys screamed together and the parakeets broke into shrill chatter, but during the hot hours of the day only the full drone of the insects, like the beat of a distant surf, filled the air, while nothing moved amid the solemn vistas of stupendous trunks, fading away into the darkness which held us in. Once some bandy-legged, lurching creature, an ante-eater or a bear, scuttled clumsily amid the shadows. It was the only sign of earth life which I saw in this great Amazonian forest.

Good Thoughts for Good People

Assume no false sense of responsibility, but look to God as the All Power, the truly omnipotent, in whom inheres all might, as well as all good. God's power can by no means be enlisted on the side of evil. How can infinite good know or support ought but the perfect and good? Yet how prone are mortals to wish to intercept something of their own efforts in order to help the Lord, the omnipotent One!

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

GLORIA GORDON, beautiful flapper, marries DICK GREGORY, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes . . . but no work or children.

She refuses to cook and keep house. She hires RANGHILL SWANSON to do it for her, although Dick says they can't afford a maid. And she swamps him with debts for her clothes and an automobile.

Gloria becomes infatuated with STANLEY WAYBURN, an out-of-work actor. Her "jazzy" friend, MAY SEYMOUR, wife of DR. JOHN SEYMOUR, warns her not to be seen with Wayburn. She tells Gloria how she, herself, has been snubbed because of her foolish affair with JIM CAREWE.

Dick becomes seriously ill with pneumonia. During the days of his slow recovery, Gloria sees a great deal of Wayburn, who makes violent love to her. He borrows $200 of Dick's money from Gloria, and goes to New York to be leading man for SON-YA CHOTEK, a Russian actress.

Dr. Seymour orders Dick away for a rest. His mother, who has been ill, also plans to go with him. But Gloria says that if MOTHER GREGORY goes, she won't. Dick refuses to tell his mother that Gloria doesn't want her with them. So Gloria stays at home . . . just long enough to pack to go to New York, where her friend, KIT CAMERON, is on the stage.

Gloria goes to see Wayburn. But he "turns her down" and tells her he has just married Sonya Chotek.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

GLORIA took the news of Wayburn's marriage as she might have taken the news of his death—standing very straight and still. Too hurt to cry! Too shocked to say a word!

So he had married Sonya Chotek yesterday.

At last she found her voice. "How long have you been in love with her?" Wayburn smiled. For quite a long time, if you must know," he said. "Months."

It began to dawn upon Gloria that she had been treated shamefully by Wayburn.

He had made love to her when he had really been in love with Sonya Chotek. And he had borrowed money from her to follow Sonya Chotek here and marry her!

Gloria groaned aloud. Oh, what a fool she had made of herself! For deep in her heart, she had always known that Stan truly didn't care about her.

Perhaps if she had scorned him, laughed at him, he would be on his knees to her still! For that was the way with men: they wanted most what they couldn't have! . . . They spent their lives wishing for the moon. The fruit that hung highest on the tree . . . that was the fruit they craved. The woman who was longed to somebody else was the woman they desired above all other women!

"You coward!" she flared up at him, "all the time you were telling me how crazy you were about me, you knew you were going to marry another woman! . . . Why, you're nothing but a crook!"

WAYBURN'S smile widened.

And all the time you were letting me make love to you, you were married to another man!" he said. "You were doing a little double-crossing, yourself, I'd say!"

Gloria couldn't find a word to say. She knew that he was telling the truth . . . unvarnished, and unpleasant to listen to!

"The wonder to me is that Gregory ever married you," Wayburn went on. "I can't understand any man ever taking you seriously, Gloria. . . . I never did, you know. Not for a minute. I had the low-down on you right from the start."

"The low-down on me?" Gloria asked him, "what do you mean?"

"Oh, I'd seen your kind of woman before. The world's full of them."

He pulled away from her. "No," he said. The door closed on him.

Wayburn went on insolently. "Light weights . . . that's the way men size you up! Dolls to play around with for a while. . . ."

Gloria picked up her hat and began to put it on. She didn't have to stay here to be insulted any longer.

Wayburn spoke again. "You're a member of the great sisterhood that takes everything and gives nothing in return," he said.

"That stung Gloria to anger. "You say that! You!" she cried. "What have I ever taken from you. I'd like to know! Nothing but a lot of applause!"

"I wasn't talking about myself. I was speaking of your husband," Wayburn said clearly. "You've never made him any decent return for what he's given you. Have you?"

"You're a great one to talk!" Gloria answered. "You were glad enough to ride around in the car he'd given me, weren't you? You didn't mind spoiling my life with him just for the fun of the thing, did you? . . . And now you have the nerve to pull this holier-than-thou stuff on me!—Oh, it's too funny. . . ."

Her voice rose shrilly on a high wave of hysteria. She laughed and laughed until she was weak. She lay limply in her chair, with her arms hanging at her sides. She was beyond tears, done for.

She heard the door of the room open. She looked up. Wayburn was going out. She stood up then and laid one hand on his arm. But he pulled away from her. "No," he said. The door closed on him.

Gloria had no feeling in her as she left Stanley Wayburn's boarding house. She was so terribly hurt that she was numb to her own pain.

She walked along block after block without knowing what she was doing. She stopped sometimes, to look into shop windows—but only because she had always loved to look into shop windows.

It was after seven when she got back to her hotel. She walked past the open door of the dining room. Her own room was dark.

Without turning on the lights, she house-boat at Palm Beach. But there's nothing to most of them but a line of talk and a fur overcoat that ain't even paid for! . . . Buttons shoe boys! I call 'em!"

Gloria frowned a little. She didn't want Kit to think that Dick was that kind of a man. Buttons shoe boy, indeed!

"Oh, it wasn't the money that made the trouble, Kit," she said quickly. "We just didn't hit it off."

"Don't get it into your head that I married him for nothing but money. I thought I was pretty keen about him at first."

Kit sighed, as she sugared her grapefruit.

"That's the way with love. It wears out too soon," she said. "A girl ought to marry for money."

"Only, it's so hard to find," she went on wistfully. "Most of these 'heavy-sugar papers' with real money are tied up to some hatchet-faced wife who's hanging on to 'em like grim death! . . . A girl has a hard time these days, especially in the show business."

The show business! Ah, now they were getting down to brass tacks! "Kit," Gloria began. "I came to ask you to help me get a job on the stage. Do you suppose you could introduce me to Ginfeld?"

Kit widened her green eyes. "Well, you sure have your nerve!" she said. "Ginfeld's girls are supposed to be the best-looking girls in the world!"

Gloria narrowed her eyes. Could it be that Kit didn't think she was pretty enough for a Ginfeld chorus girl?

"You used to say I was better looking than you, Kit," she said at last.

"I know. But I'm a type! Pure Spanish! Ginfeld says so," Kit said with pride. "And . . . aren't you getting the least bit too fat, dear?"

She looked across the room into the mirror above the dressing-table. She ran a hand down her own exquisite flatness.

"I'll tell you what!" she said suddenly. "I'm going down to the shop for rehearsal in a little while. I'll take you along, Gloria. And if Ginfeld is there, I'll introduce you to him. That's the best I can do for you. . . . And after all, some girls spend years just trying to see Ginfeld."

Gloria was delighted.

THE Gloria who walked into Herman Ginfeld's office was sure of her own charm.

She was confident that Ginfeld would jump at the chance to put her in his chorus of beauties.

"Let's see," Ginfeld began. "You're the girl that Cameron told me about. Gloria Gordon?"

"Yes," Gloria answered, seating herself beside his desk.

"Stand up," he said sharply. Gloria stood.

Ginfeld leaned back, and stuck his thumbs in the armholes of his vest. He looked her over from head to foot.

"Dance?" he asked. "Sing?"

"A little of both, thanks," Gloria answered. She knew that it was not dancing or singing, but her looks, that counted with Ginfeld!

She waited breathlessly while he clapped a brown derby hat on his bald head, and stood up. He looked at her indifferently.

"We're putting on a summer show pretty soon," he said, after a moment. "If you can use you in it, I'll let you know. . . . Thanks for coming in."

A summer show! A bum summer show! . . . Gloria could have wept with disappointment. Her heart was as heavy as a lump of lead.

She knew that she had not made a "hit" with Ginfeld!

She knew that she would never be in the famous "Gayettes" chorus! That dream was smashed forever!

She was ashamed to go out into the dusty hallway and face Kit, who was waiting there for her.

"He didn't want me," she said hopelessly.

"Don't take it too hard, Gloria," Kit comforted her. "You just don't happen to be the type Ginfeld wants. Try the other managers."

McTangle

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO RUTH BURKE

Ruth Dear: Zoe Ellington and Sydney Carton both have disappeared in a most mysterious fashion.

The night of my party, you may remember that we missed Zoe. Jack, being the curious member of our family, tried to find out when and with whom she left. Zoe, however, at least so he tells me, refused to give him any information whatever on the subject. Jack says that at the party she was very nervous and asked him several times if we were surely going to leave on the morning train. As you know we all did this.

Zoe was very strange on the train over here to Pittsburg, and seemed to be afraid to be alone.

When we arrived and I showed her her room and the new nursery, instead of saying anything about the conveniences and beauty of the furniture and decorations, she threw herself at my feet, saying, "Oh, Mrs. Prescott, if you only knew how much I love you and little Jack. You do not know what it means for me to be here with you. You will keep me with you, won't you. It seems to me now that if I could spend my entire life with you, it would be all I could ask."

I thought it rather strange, Ruth, as you know how self-contained Zoe has always been, but I took it that she has worked very hard and was nervous and overwrought. I reassured her of my appreciation of her love and bade her good night, as she seemed much calmer.

I didn't think so much about this until I received the next morning (which was yesterday), a letter from mother which contained the most surprising information.

You know mother has been in Switzerland with Karl Well, at Bern. A young woman called upon her to ask about Zoe. It was not Elizabeth Swartz, whom you have heard about from Zoe, but someone of whom mother had never heard.

According to this girl, Zoe has a most peculiar history. Three times she has had affairs and broken up the homes of three different married men. This girl, who was the sister-in-law of one of the men, was very bitter against her. She asserts that the brother-in-law deserted his family for Zoe, and at last, lost his splendid position in a banking house through her. Naturally the couple were reduced to great distress and Zoe told the man she was going to live in poverty with him no longer.

She told him she had never loved him, but had decided after Harry, her brother, had died to do into some family of wealth and influence and make some connection either legitimate or illegitimate that would insure her a home.

When this man had found out that she had betrayed him and saw that he had given up wife and child and home—everything he had in the world—for someone who was nothing for him, it seems he went nearly insane and swore to kill her.
